EVALUATION OF THE COMPETENCE:

SECTION C: READING COMPREHENSION (10 MARKS)

Read the following passage about environmental problems and answer the questions that follow it.

The world is facing numerous environmental problems, including climate change, deforestation, pollution, and loss of biodiversity. Climate change is one of the most pressing issues, causing rising temperatures, melting glaciers, and extreme weather events. Deforestation, mainly for agricultural purposes, is leading to habitat loss and extinction of many species.

Pollution, particularly air and water pollution, is another major concern. The burning of fossil fuels is releasing massive amounts of carbon dioxide and other pollutants into the atmosphere, causing respiratory problems and other health issues. Water pollution, mainly due to industrial and agricultural activities, is harming aquatic life and affecting human health.

However, there are many solutions to these environmental problems. One of the most effective ways to reduce carbon emissions is to switch to renewable energy sources, such as solar and wind power. Energy-efficient technologies, like LED bulbs and smart grids, can also help reduce energy consumption.

Sustainable agriculture practices, such as permaculture and agroforestry, can help reduce deforestation and promote biodiversity. Reducing meat consumption and food waste can also help minimize the environmental impact of agriculture.

In addition, governments and organizations can implement policies and laws to protect the environment. For example, carbon pricing and clean energy subsidies can encourage businesses and individuals to adopt environmentally-friendly practices.

Individuals can also make a difference by making conscious choices in their daily lives. Using public transport, carpooling, and driving electric or hybrid vehicles can reduce carbon emissions. Reducing energy consumption, using eco-friendly products, and supporting sustainable businesses can also help mitigate environmental problems.
