

I-READING COMPREHENSION Read the text carefully, then answer the questions

Text: African medicine, a forgotten thing.

Native doctors in our lands can cure illness as well as hospital trained doctors. They also have some good medicines which can cure diseases very quickly. But unfortunately they have been forgotten over the years.

In Africa, we think that the hospital trained doctors' medicines are better than the traditional doctors' medicines, but this is wrong. Of course we agree that traditional doctors know less or nothing about medical analysis, laboratory tests or X-ray, but they use some magic powers or mystries to detect the causes of some illness. Some illness caused by witches or wizards and enchantments, can be cured by native doctors but can't be cured by medical trained doctors. It is a pity these potential traditional doctors are forgotten today, all in the name of modernization and civilization. Some of us even call them witches and wizards.
