Malian ‘Spiderman’ made a French citizen

Mamoudou Gassama, the Malian migrant who dramatically rescued a small boy from a balcony in Paris on May 26 2018, has been made a French citizen for his services to the country.

Mamoudou Gassama climbed four floor so fan apartment building to save a four-year old child from falling to the ground .The child had been left unsupervised in the apartment .This was a feat which most people would have considered impossible .Mr Gassama, who had been living in France illegally ,was praised all over the world for his bravery .The president of France, Emmanuel Macron ,personally thanked him and offered him a job working in the French fire service. ‘This act of great bravery exemplifies the value which help unite our national community, such as courage, selflessness in a moment of life or death, altruism and taking care of the most vulnerable ’said an official statement when Mr Gassama’ s citizenship was announced.

Mr Gassama’s skill and bravery in rescuing a child earned him the name ‘Spiderman’ . He also received a medal for bravery from the city of Paris .He is now training in the fire service in Paris.

Gassama arrived France a year ago. He came through north Africa and a cross the Mediterranean Sea with other migrants. He found jobs working on construction sites in Paris .He lived in a hostel in the suburb of Montreuil .Providing emergency help to a young child without thought to his own safety has changed Mamoudou Gassama’s life.
